Dev Shree is from Village Thabaliyan Kalan (near Veerni's adopted village Binawas). She is belonging from Rajput community (general), though she is belonging from higher caste; her family's economic condition is very weak. Government of Rajasthan has issued them a BPL (below poverty line) card, it shows their economic condition is very bad.

Dev Shree has three younger sisters and one younger brother, in totality seven members in her family. Her father is an educated person and has got college degree and her mother too has educated up to class 10th. Her father is a farmer and mother is a housewife.

Dev Shree is a fortunate that she got an educated parent which is very rare in her village, that is the reason her parents understand the value of the girls education. Her parent always wants to give her better education but because of their terrible economic condition, they were planning to stop her education. One day, Dev shree's father came to know about the Veerni Project and had approached to the Veerni staff, seeing his weak economic status, Veerni had enrolled Dev Shree in class 10th in the year 2007-08. She was a very brilliant student and in 2009-10, she had graduated from the Veerni Institute with very good marks.

After her graduation, Veerni had motivated her father for further education and her father too promised Veerni that as long as she is achieving good results in the exams they would do anything for fund her further education; they even had taken loan from their relatives for Dev Shree's higher education.

After finishing her schooling, Dev Shree jointed B-STC (Before Teachers Training Centre) course, it was two and half year course, which she had completed. Apart from B-STC, she enrolled in the University and currently is doing B.A. Final year from Jai Narayan Vyas University Jodhpur as a private student. She is also preparing for competition examination for government job, she said; one day, she would get government job.

Dev Shree says – “My goal is to study hard and to one day become a RAS (Rajasthan Administration Services) Officer. I want to bring positive change in the society and would want to create a society that could support and respect women.” she added – for that, she has to study hard and achieve a Post Graduate degree from the University.”

She further said – “I am happy that the Veerni has supported me and would want to thank the Veerni Institute for all the facilities. She says; at Veerni Institute, I have not only learned about the importance of education but also gained lot of knowledge on my personal health, now I’m much more confident than I was before.”

Her father said – “Veerni has changed her life entirely. Before Veerni, my daughter was living in darkness but Veerni has brought light in my daughter’s life and has shown a path of success to her. He further says – Now, I can dream of my daughter for higher studies, getting a government job and earning on her own, she won’t have to live like us.”

Dev Shree told us that when she becomes a RAS Officer, she will fund the Veerni Institute for rural girls’ education so that more girls like her become confident and independent hence that they could live a qualified life.
